

Booking Rooms for October 2018

If you are trying to book a room at the Hawthorne Hotel for NEXT October (2018) you will want to read this information. We do not book for more than one year in advance which is why the rooms and rates cannot be displayed on the website. In addition, we usually have very high demand for the rooms for each weekend in October, so we handle this demand by allowing our returning guests to book first, before making the rooms available to the general public.

We do charge a one-night non-refundable deposit for all reservations including a Saturday night in October. In the event of a cancellation for any reason this deposit will be forfeited and kept by the Hawthorne Hotel as a cancellation fee.

If you wish to book a weekend in October, rooms will be available to the general public (on the website or by calling the front desk) every Tuesday at 10am following the weekend as noted in the charts below.

Returning October Weekend Guests

Guests who are staying in 2017 for the October weekends are allowed to book for 2018 while they are here – however this is not a guarantee of room availability for these guests – only an option that they are allowed to exercise if the room they desire is available. Group rooms can be blocked more than a year in advance, so at times we may have certain room types unavailable even for our returning October guests.
